McAdoo Forces Spring Surprise When Colorado Sees His Nomination

Action Is Signal for Another Great Demonstration in Behalf of Californian.

DIN RAISED FOR SMITH

Preliminary Outburst When Nominating Speaker Takes Stand Is Angry of What New Yorker's Adherents Plan When Roosevelt Ends Speech.

by United Press.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, June 26.—Under the guiding hand of a woman for the first time in the history of the great parties, the Democratic National Convention entered its third session today—a Smith-for-President session.

Chairman Walsh, after calling the convention to order at 11:33 o'clock, introduced William W. Porter of New York, member of the board of education, who delivered the invocation.

He then turned over the gavel to Miss May Kennedy of the Bronx, who was elected yesterday as the first vice-president of the national convention.

Standing coolly behind the microphone at the front of the speaker's rostrum, Miss Kennedy made a short address—a woman's keynote.

A call figure, all in white, save for a thin hair peeping from under a small white hat and beautiful red shoes and a smile of the valley at her side, she faced the greatest crowd that has attended any session of the convention to date.

A daring piece of convention demonstration strategy was pulled by the McAdoo forces immediately after the convention convened, when they set out deliberately to steal Al Smith's stuff.

When Colorado was called Governor Sweet took the platform and sprang a complete surprise by seconding the nomination of McAdoo. Colorado had been expected to pass, Connecticut yield and then New York have its big show with the nomination and demonstration for Al Smith.

With the mention of McAdoo's name by Sweet, however, the Californian's supporters were out with a rush. They screamed, yelled, the band played and a parade of standards, with California, Oregon, Idaho, Washington, Florida and South Carolina leading the van was soon under way. Then Sweet concluded and the state of Connecticut was called next on the roll.

"Connecticut yields to the state of New York," the chairman said. A terrible din split the garden from end to end as galleries and floor seemed to rise in one tremendous outburst of violent applause. Rattles, whistles, horns, cheers and wild shouts rang up and down the long hall as the packed humanity, Franklin D. Roosevelt stepped forward to the front of the speaker's rostrum and by a wave of the hand brought silence promptly out of the bedlam. Such was the organization of this great demonstration—an augury of what came later. Roosevelt, in his speech, reached the point in which he said "I hope that when you reach the balloting tomorrow you will remember the words of Abraham Lincoln and act in accordance with malice toward none and charity toward all." And there was another loud but militant and brief explosion. Roosevelt continued.

STORM SPOILS DECORATIONS

NEW YORK, June 26.—Faded decorations greeted Democratic visitors today, following a sudden gale and rain which struck the city late yesterday. Four persons were drowned, dozens injured, convention decorations ripped from buildings, subway lines tied up and river and harbor traffic halted by the storm.

The deluge broke just as about 1,800 delegates and friends were assembling at the country home of Samuel Untermyer. There was to have been a garden party but the "mess tent" went with the 73-mile an hour wind.

Approximately 100,000 natives and visitors promenading about Coney Island, seeking relief from the 94-degree temperature were caught in the storm.

Decorative Flurries Here. The flag staffs and flags sold to the merchants of the city by the Milton L. Bishop Post, No. 301, The American Legion, to be used in decorating the streets on national holidays have arrived. The bases for the flagstaffs will be "planted" along the curbs, and with all merchants and firms in the business section advertising for them the city will be uniformly decorated. They will be ready for use by July fourth.

The photograph was sent from New York over the telephone lines of the Bell system by its new photo-tele phone process.

DEMONSTRATION FOR GOV. SMITH LASTS HOUR AND 20 MINUTES

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, June 26.—A demonstration that lasted an hour and 20 minutes greeted the placing in nomination today of Governor Al Smith of New York for the presidency.

The deafening demonstration for Smith was not confined to the convention hall but soon began to spread through the lower end of town, particularly all around the Gardens. Windows were broken and piles of refuse and scraps of paper came rattling down. It was like a snow storm. Volunteer hands began parading. Thousands of people were packed in Madison Square Park listening to the radio installed there.

When the noise of the demonstration inside came sweeping out these thousands joined in. Straws were thrown in the air and men and women on a charge of maniacal laughter. The accompaniment of bands in the Garden. Automobiles and special wagons.

with radio equipment erected on top moved slowly through the streets so that the noise of the Garden demonstration soon reached every nook and corner of the city. As they stopped, at corners crowds immediately gathered about them and soon hundreds were joining in the singing of "Apple Blossom," "Sidewalks of New York," "A Hot Time in the Old Town," and other songs of days gone by.

At 1:50 P. M., daylight saving time, one hour and 12 minutes after it began, the Smith demonstration was halted by the appearance on the speaker's platform of Miss Anna Case, the Metropolitan opera singer. To a band accompaniment she sang "Star Spangled Banner." The delegates and convention observers joined in the last stanza, filling the great auditorium with a mighty chorus.

Before the last note had died away, and before Chairman Walsh could wield his gavel, the Smith boomers broke out afresh and with increased vigor in their demonstration. It lasted eight minutes, making the total one hour and 20 minutes, as compared with the one hour demonstration for McAdoo yesterday.

Final Homicide Case of Court Term Is Called

When court convened in Uniontown this morning the final homicide trial of the term was taken up before Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen. Alvin B. Spiros, alias Shorty, was arraigned on a charge of manslaughter.

The case grew out of an automobile accident in which Spiros ran down a child on the Panther road.

Angelo Manzella of Davidson was convicted yesterday of a serious offense against a girl of that place. Repeated warnings by Deputy Court Clerk Eugene H. Hipsley failed to quiet Mike Manzella and Anthony Plet who talked and disturbed court proceedings during the trial of the former's brother, Angelo.

At the conclusion of the trial the two men were called before Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen and were severely lectured and fined $25 each for contempt of court. They were given in-lieu to the sheriff for commitment to jail until the fine was paid. The men succeeded in digging up the cash and did not have to go behind the bars.

At the beginning of the afternoon session of court Wednesday the case of Charles Norman of near Republic, charged with involuntary manslaughter was taken up before Judge Van Swearingen. Norman was charged with having run over Paul Clark on last January 24 at a point near Towel Hill. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, the costs being placed on the county.

Platform Ready Except Klan and League Planks

Sub-Committee Completes Work Early Today After All-Night Session.

UP TO CONVENTION FRIDAY

NEW YORK, June 26.—After an all-night struggle, marked by sharp but amiable differences, the drafting committee today brought forth the Democratic platform for 1924, complete, but for planks on the League of Nations and the Ku Klux Klan. Those vexatious issues remained to be ironed out today at a meeting of the resolutions committee.

Although alternative plans representing the extreme and moderate views on both the League and Klan have been drafted, the adoption of compromises on both issues by the committee was virtually assured. That means that the final decision will be squarely up to the convention itself. Whether extremists make good their threat to carry the fight to the floor remains to be seen, but leaders generally believe such action will be forestalled.

The sub-committee today resumed consideration of the alternative League and Klan planks drafted by Homer P. Cummings, chairman of the resolutions committee and Senator Pittman of Nevada, secretary, who were appointed to do the work. Cummings said he believed the platform as a whole could be submitted to the full committee before night but that it probably would not be laid before the convention before tomorrow.

The Klan plank, which meets with almost unanimous favor, is a vigorous denunciation of all secret organizations which seek to impair racial equality and religious freedom, but does not mention the Klan by name.

Mellon said that C. W. Hubbard of Trenton, N. J., a steel magnate, had visited him and told of paying Means and Jarnoch $10,000 to obtain liquor from the Sam Thompson distillery at Brownsville, Pa. "The liquor never reached Hubbard and the money was not returned," Mellon said he did not go into the case fully but referred Hubbard to Commissioner Blair.

"Were not indictments returned against a prohibition agent named Hawker and the superintendent of the bottling plant of the Overholt distillery after Means' investigation?" And were these indictments not quashed by request of the secretary of the treasury?" Defense Attorney Felder asked. (The superintendent referred to was George Fattkin of Broad Ford.) Mellon was emphatic in his denial but the question and answer were stricken from the records at the request of Prosecutor Todd.

Mellon said he knew nothing of 2,500 cases of liquor found in the Overholt distillery and of four liquor permits said to have been found in the Mellon National Bank at Pittsburgh until the Senate Daugherty investigation was started. He said he then learned liquor permits were found in the Overholt distillery and that they were forged. He said his bank had not loaned money on liquor permits since 1915.

The Trotter clinic was organized by the State Board of Health during the summer of 1922, but it was deemed advisable to close it on account of conditions during the strike of that year. This clinic has been re-opened by the Red Cross.

McKee is in charge of the clinic, assisted by the two Red Cross public health nurses.

The clinic is for all children up to six years of age, and mothers in Trotter and vicinity are urged to take their children to be examined, measured and weighed. There is no charge in connection with this clinic service.

Balloting Tonight For Test of Strength Is Being Discussed

NEW YORK, June 26.—Discussion of a night session for the Democratic convention was under way this afternoon in event the nominating speeches are completed. It was the idea of convention leaders that the convention should meet again tonight and take four or five ballots for President before receiving the platform report.

No nomination is anticipated, of course, but the leaders believe that by giving the leading candidates and dark horses an opportunity for a preliminary gallop much progress might be made.

Rabbi Wise Takes Place of Murphy

Rabbi Stephen Wise of New York, who lectured a few weeks ago in Uniontown at a gathering of Jews of Fayette and Westmoreland counties, was named Wednesday to fill the vacancy on the New York Democratic delegation caused by the death of Charles F. Murphy the Tammany Hall chieftain.

It was understood that Rabbi Wise was selected in the first place because he represented geographically the congested East Side district of New York and secondly because of his noted ability as an orator.

The delegation as formerly made up lacked ready and able floor speakers and it was felt by some that the Tammany chief's death made it possible for this situation to be overcome.

No Police Court. There were no hearings in police court this morning, no arrests being made over night.

His Lines Are Expected to Hold for at Least Five Ballots.

"LAST DITCHERS" BITTER

Won't Go to Smith, Preferring, They Say, a "Dry" to a "Wet" Catholic; Walsh Being Groomed by Strategists As One of the Many "Dark Horses."

Special Dispatch by David Lawrence.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, June 26.—"Strategy is no sin," said Senator Pat Harrison in his keynote speech, and his managers for the 15 or more candidates vying for the presidential nomination are taking him at his word.

The effort to wean away delegates from McAdoo has begun in earnest and some headway is being made. Trades and bargains looking to the accumulation of second choice pledges are being consummated on every side. Of the "Dark Horses" Newton D. Baker of Ohio and Senator Thomas F. Walsh of Montana are beginning to figure prominently in the discussions of what will happen when both McAdoo and Smith are eliminated.

There are signs that the long expected endurance test may not materialize after all and that a nomination will come within 20 ballots. This is being revealed by the strategy of the managers themselves who are asking for "Favorite Son" delegations to come to them on the fourth or fifth ballot and that many delegations will then feel free to abandon their instructions.

Judging from present appearances there is going to be a good deal of bitterness about violation of pledges and instructions for it never has been definitely established in convention politics when an instructed delegation can turn to a dark horse and how long a pledge should stick. The McAdoo lines will hold for at least five ballots. Some defections may then be expected but at present nothing the McAdoo management is confident of a last ditch strength which amounts to more than one-third of the number of delegates here, enough to block a nomination.

The McAdoo "last ditch" delegates will not go to Governor Al Smith. They are so vehement in their expressions of bitterness at treatment reserved here that they are beginning to say that they will cast their strength in any other direction but that of Smith. The talk of Senator Walsh of Montana is developing largely because the anti-Klan groups in the convention realize they cannot hope to win the McAdoo element with Smith, but that the adherents of the former secretary of the treasury might not be averse to the Montana senator.

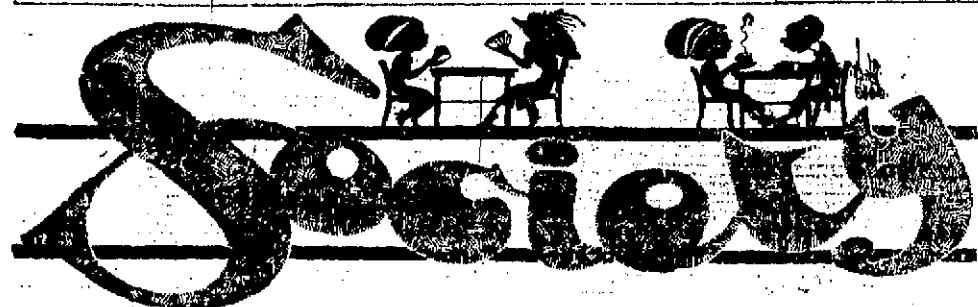

In other words, if the issue is to be a religious one, the McAdoo delegates would prefer a "dry" Catholic to a "wet" Catholic. The demonstration on Wednesday against the Klan revealed the depth of feeling on that issue and may mean the selection of a Catholic on the ticket as vice-president if not of President. The McAdoo managers are beginning to consider a McAdoo-Walsh combination for President and vice-president as one way of showing they are not controlled by the Ku Klux Klan.

The artificiality of the demonstration staged by the McAdoo people was apparent to everybody but it was a purpose just the same. It was to answer the rumors that McAdoo had lost most of his delegates. Today the Smith supporters are out to prove by noise and otherwise that they have as much strength as McAdoo and as much if not more enthusiasm back of their candidate. Former Senator Phelan's speech for McAdoo was spoiled as much by its length as the activity of his own supporters on the floor passing around flags and bunting in preparation for the demonstration.

Except for the fact that the flag waving proved McAdoo had not yet been eliminated, and that he had more than one-third of the delegates, the demonstration was futile and the same may be said of the Smith demonstration for the assembled delegates are not the patchy hand to be swept off their feet by fireworks. They are controlled by small groups of leaders whose combination of maneuvers may force a dark horse into nomination in the end.

At the moment the McAdoo-Smith people remain more than 800 delegates. Talk of dark horses is as yet only talk and largely guesswork for the leaders themselves concede everything is still in the laps of the gods.

PLATFORM WILL BE READY FRIDAY

By United Press.
 NEW YORK, June 25.—Presentation of the platform to the Democratic National Convention is now scheduled for tomorrow. After working through most of the night and for several hours today the drafting sub-committee was still hard at it while the Smith demonstration was in progress at the Garden. All but the two principal planks, the League of Nations and the Klan, had been virtually disposed of.

McCormick-Palmer Group Is Not in the Political Picture

NEW YORK, June 25.—In the mutations of politics many funny things happen. One individual or group of individuals may be up today, and down tomorrow. That's the situation with respect to the Pennsylvania delegation in the Democratic convention. The McCormick-Palmer group are complaining bitterly of the efficient work of the Guffey steam roller. They are flat as a pancake and are receiving no consideration whatever by the ruling faction. When the tactics of the McCormick crowd are recalled their whining about similar treatment now excites only contemptuous ridicule. Guffey and Bonnell are running the Pennsylvania show and the little segment of the Wilson organization is lost in the shuffle. No attention whatever is being given to the group which basked in the sunshine of the last Democratic administration. They are out of the picture, and none remains to do them obsequies. From Harrisburg comes the former chairman of the National Democratic Committee with no following worthy the name and one guest ticket to the convention. It's all a repetition of the whiffling of politics, and the tyranny of the controlling factions during the Wilson administration has given place to the autocratic power of the Guffey-Bonnell organization.

CULBRANSEN The Registering Piano

The Only REGISTERING Piano

What an astounding change has come to pass in piano playing by music roll and pedal. To bring yourself musically up-to-date—investigate the REGISTERING Piano!

What an amazing face and altogether better quality of music you now can play because of this new registering feature! To realize how completely this epoch-making idea has upset all your former opinions of instruments of this type—get acquainted with the Culbransen.

Keys pressed down, as in hand playing, are locked down, as in yesterday's player-pianos. That's what the Culbransen Registering feature does! It registers your notes "touch" on each note. You can grab each note's sound, not merely play it loudly or softly.

With such direct and perfect control as the Culbransen gives of such-and-such notes on the keyboard, you can regulate their tone—separately, individually—exactly as the pianist does in professional concert playing!

White Lily Bacon and eggs! always a good breakfast

To start the day right, break the long fast and cheer the morning, try "White Lily" Bacon and Eggs with a little "White Lily" Sausage.

"White Lily" Bacon is taken from the sides of choice, thin-skinned young porkers, less than a year old. Its curing and smoking give it a delicate, pleasing flavor—doesn't crisp too much in pan—always uniformly delicious.

"White Lily" is your magic word for Hams, Bacon, Butter and Eggs that always satisfy—remember it! It means the beginning of many perfect days.

Scottdale Loses When Carl Roemele Starts Uniontown Rally in Ninth, Score 6-5

Mill Towners Seem to Have Gained Sowed Up When Break Suddenly Comes.

IS THRILLING FINISH

When Uniontown rallied in the ninth inning of its game with Scottdale yesterday afternoon the county-siders defeated the Mill Town club, 6-5. Many Uniontown fans, feeling the game had been lost, left the park, but those who remained saw the most thrilling finish of any contest played in Uniontown this year.

With two men in the ninth retired, a three-base hit by Seigfried, sandwiched between two singles gave Uniontown a two-run lead and resulted in a 6-5 victory for the Payette county team.

Roemele, who formerly was with the Connellsville Independents, now disbanded, started the Uniontown rally. He singled, followed by the triple to right center. Then Roemele, a former Mill Town player picked up by Uniontown, sent a line drive at McElroy on first base. The fielder touched the ball but did not stop it and Seigfried scampered home from third with the winning tally.

The game was a thriller throughout. Sensational catches by "Hobe" Fisher of Connellsville, Botti and a one-handed catch by Kopt featured Scottdale's strong play into the lead at the opening of the game when Kopt lifted one of Helmick's offerings over the right field fence while Gatsie was occupying first base.

The score:

Dickerson Run Forms Team for Railroad League

Dickerson Run will be represented in the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad baseball league. It was voted last evening at a meeting of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Athletic Association of Dickerson Run shops. William Addis, now twirling for the Divida Independents, will manage the team. A hot election for captaincy resulted with Percy Edwards getting the honors. Five others were candidates for captaincy. William J. Werberle, president of the association, was in charge of the meeting.

A membership campaign with 300 members as its goal, was launched by the association. Between 30 and 40 were taken in last evening. About 30 attended the meeting.

The railroad team will practice this evening on the Dickerson Run grounds. Arrangements will be made with the Divida Independents to have both teams play without conflict. One team will represent the railroad while the other will represent the town.

An argument between a railroad and a Divida representative over the ball grounds took place. The Divida team has the grounds leased. Should any trouble come about between the two teams, it is expected that a new ball field will be constructed, somewhere, somehow and sometime.

Divida management is fully determined that the team will play throughout the season. President Aketo said that a baseball team will represent the three towns for the remainder of the year, even if he had to commercialize the amateur sport.

On the collegiate line-up will be a combination of Princeton, St. John's of Baltimore, Schenck of Bethany, Colton of Bellefonte, Nieu of State, Dick of Penn. King of Carnegie Tech, Joe King of the Connellsville High School and other stars. T. King of the Crescents will do the twirling.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

At a meeting of the association, held Monday evening it was determined that only members in complete good standing should participate. Saturday will see some of the best in the local club endeavoring to win honors in Uniontown. Last year, in an inter-city series, the Uniontown club took practically everything from the form being shown by some of the clubs, however it is unlikely there will be any repetition of this.

Minutes SMO Club

The Pittsburgh Pirates won another ball game yesterday. Earl Yde, who relieved Monday in the fourth when the Cubs were leading 6-0, beating Chicago by driving in the runs in the ninth that tied the score and then slugging the ball in the fourteenth to score the tally needed to win the game. Krumpholtz will probably be on the mound for the Bucs this afternoon.

The Washington Senators of the American League will remain in first place, defeating the Yankees yesterday, thereby making a clean sweep of the series.

The Pittsburgh National League team at last attained a standing of 500 per cent. The club has won 29 games and lost the same number.

The Pro-Spectors and Junior team met in the Church House last evening.

The Capitan ball club plays at Division this evening. It is a return game with the Uniontown Independents.

McGraw's Catchers Are Oldest in Game

Did you ever hear of a ninety-seven-year-old catching star? Well step up boys, and meet Mr. McGraw's trio.

Blank Gledy, who started to play ball before the first double-jointed peanut was invented, is thirty-four years old by his own admission. Eddie Alsworth, who has caught in every league, professes to be thirty-two, and Frank Snyder, who used to run around with one of the original Florida suits, says he's thirty-one.

We submit this trio as the oldest catching staff in the world.

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

The fans in the rest of the country do not care much who beats the New York team.

Salt Lake has released pitcher Harry O'Neill to the Dallas club of the Texas league.

Pitcher Skeets McBride has been released by Mobile in accordance with the player's contract.

Baseball is like almost everything else in life. Win one pennant and everybody expects you to repeat.

Dudley Lee, Boston Red Sox shortstop, doesn't look much of a batter, but he certainly can cut capers in the field.

Orden, the new Senator pitcher, was obtained from the Athletics for the waiver price. He's a big, rangy fellow.

Wayland Hicks of Brooklyn, Iowa, captain of the University of Iowa baseball team has signed a contract with the Dubuque club of the Mississippi Valley league.

Johnny Nuhn, first baseman of the St. Paul team, who was with Detroit this spring, stole second, third and home in a recent game with Louisville. He leads the American association in thefts.

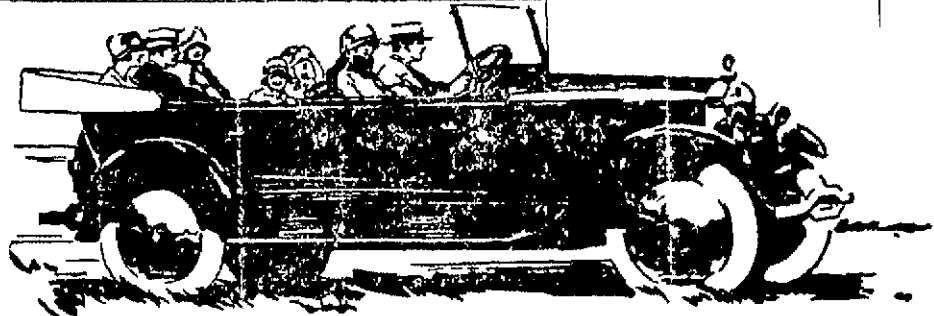

One of the first recorded extra-inning games of baseball required 10 innings before it was decided, the contestants being the Gothams and Knickerbockers of New York city, it being played June 30, 1854.

Ty Cobb unlike many other ball players who later developed into stars, got away to a good start in his major league debut game. The first time the Georgian came to bat in the main ball he laced out a two-base hit to center field. The smack was made off no less a celebrity in those days than Jack Chesbro. That was back in August, 1906. And Ty has been hitting ever since.

greater POWER

ONE of the five points which put this year's Atlantic Gasoline still farther ahead in the field of motor fuels is Greater Power. Atlantic does develop more power—not simply because it is heavily packed with high heat-producing units, but because these elements are so finely balanced that Atlantic ignites thoroughly and burns completely. Its chain of "boiling points" is uniform. Combustion is complete. Every drop is converted into live, wheel-turning energy.

When you buy Atlantic, you get fuel that's full-powered, uniform, clean; fuel you can depend upon to get the utmost out of your motor at all times; fuel that keeps pace with every progress in automotive construction and every change in operating conditions.

Innuendoes and Half Truths

Pittsburgh Gazette Times.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, on assuming the permanent chairmanship of the Democratic convention, repeated the innuendoes and half-truths which had made up the lengthy harangue of Senator Pat Harrison the day before. In this, as in the several nominating speeches that were made before the assemblage of delegates and boomers had worn themselves out in generally mechanical enthusiasm, was emphasized the purpose of the Democratic party this year, to harp incessantly on allegations of corruption in high places to which the Republican administration, they say, either was indifferent or recognized by efforts at suppression.

The fact that the legal machinery has been set in motion in some cases and all are to be pressed to jury trial as expeditiously as can be done was not mentioned. Senator Walsh praised about "lawless Government," that man of straw popular with demagogues, but had no difficulty in identifying by his own satisfaction by name the men he would have behind the scenes. Characterizing the Government has done nothing to relieve the unhappy state of Europe, to establish a return to political and economic stability there, he recounted an impressive series of accomplishments, for which he would deny any credit to Republicans, though all done under a Republican administration.

Of the three nominating speeches made, but one was characterized by that dispassionate discussion of assumed merits of an aspirant for honor, that absence of partisan rancor which comports with the dignity customarily associated with what should be a solemn occasion. Foreman Johnston of Alabama, presenting the name of Senator Oscar W. Underwood of that state, made a statesmanlike review of the life and services of his candidate. For the man there was not anything like the thunder of applause with which the mention of a candidate's name usually is received, but for the principle with which Senator Underwood's name is associated more closely than that of any other in this convention there was a spontaneous outburst of approval, sincere and prolonged. He condemned the Ku Klux Klan by name in his section with his declaration that Senator Underwood is exposed to the participation in politics of any secret order whatever, and declaring that no order should have powers not granted to the bill of rights.

Of course, the demonstration was not, in the main, an endorsement of any religious denomination. Merely, it was a demonstration of the American spirit, constitutionally declared, against restrictions upon liberty of worship, liberty of speech and liberty of assembly by any authority extrajudicially exercised. It might have been significant of the form a plank of the platform yet to be reported will take, but it can give no encouragement to any who would advance sectarian and racial prejudices of whatever kind. The offering of the name of Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas was

As "Pat" Harrison will later find the people of the country are as content to keep "a sphinx in the White House" as they are determined to reduce the number of talking machines on Capitol Hill.

Sheep Raising in Pennsylvania

Pittsburgh Sun

Farmers of Washington and Greene counties, in which are to be found nearly half of the sheep on Pennsylvania farms, should find encouragement in the remarks made by Deputy Secretary of Agriculture John M. McKee in connection with the publication of some interesting statistics relating to the wool growing industry. He expresses the opinion that western competition, which a few decades ago led to the abandonment of sheep raising by many of the farmers of this state, is becoming less formidable and that this may soon become a profitable branch of Pennsylvania husbandry, as it formerly was. The supremacy of Washington and Greene counties in this field has been long established, but the farmers of those counties should benefit more from the change in the situation than others.

In 1880 there were nearly four times as many sheep in Pennsylvania as there are now. Most of them, as at the present time, were in the western part of the state.

Now the free range country is rapidly disappearing. Some of the western sheep raisers are looking to the east for pasture. The situation offers opportunity for Pennsylvanians to turn their hilly acres, which are waste for the plow, to profit. There are millions of acres of such land in the state which might well be utilized as sheep pasture.

Stagan-Vorobek.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Stagan of Nollie and Michael Vorobek of Pittsburgh was solemnized Saturday morning at the St. Stephens Greek Catholic Church at Leisensburg No. 1, Rev. K. Petrasovich officiated. A wedding dinner and supper, with covers laid for 55 guests, was served at the bride's home.

a bit of flattery of that gentleman of the ready ship. But the manner in which William G. McAdoo was brought forward must have been a disappointment to himself and his followers. Former Senator Philan of California quoted Woodrow Wilson to the effect that Mr. McAdoo was quite the greatest man ever entrusted with executive duties under the President of the United States. He told New Yorkers McAdoo had done more for them than any New Yorker; he not only pictured him as a juggler who could keep half a dozen big business acts in the air at one and the same time and he wound up with a declaration that McAdoo is the candidate of the inarticulate masses. The signal for the howls and the cheering having been given, the inarticulate demonstrated they are not exactly that. But it was not fortunate for McAdoo, for a lot will be forgotten before the voting begins. Other demonstrations as mechanical are to be staged today. And they do not mean anything much as to the convention's ultimate choice.

THE FEW.

The many travel the well-paved way. Content with the common lot. But the few break out from the crowd about. And go where the throng will not. The few will stand to the hazard's risk. And bend to the dreary lot. The few will try for the hill tops high. And strive for themselves a road. The many will hit the path he knows. And the way shines smooth and clear. But the few will turn with the will to learn. To fight with the thing called fear. The many will never depart its aid. Or the failure a pathway near. Content with the joys that are his. The few are thrilled by the urge to build. The greater joys to be. Copyright 1934 Edgar A. Gault.

SUFFERED WITH LARGE PIMPLES

On Face and Neck. Hard and Red. Lost Rest. Cuticura Heals.
"For about seven months I had these large pimples on my face and neck. The pimples were hard, large, and red, and itched and stung. My face was disfigured and I lost my rest at night because of the itching and stinging. I tried different remedies but they failed to help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in two or three months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Josephine Patena, 1211 S. 7th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Tablets produce and maintain skin purity, skin comfort and skin health when used all over the body.

Child-birth

WHEN the little one arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent obstetric expert in this country has shown the way. It was Dr. Wm. C. Martin, Scranton, Pa., who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. Martin, Scranton, Pa., writes: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no property about the house and I was not a doctor because I wasn't any. I was only about ten or fifteen minutes. Use Mother's Friend as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait until today, and meanwhile write to Randolph Regulator Co., 347 N. Atlantic, for a free illustrated book containing information, every expectant mother should have. Mother's Friend is sold by all drug stores—everywhere."

To Whiten Skin with Lemon

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orinard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.
Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Advertisement.

New Treatment For Varicose Veins and Ulcers

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get a two-ounce, original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength), at any pharmacist and start to reduce the veins and hunches at once.
Physicians recommend Emerald Oil. It is used in hospital practice and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated and a little goes a long way. Apply night and morning with a soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal.
No marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that swollen glands and even goiters disappear when used steadily. Union Drug Co.—Advertisement.

Buried Chinese City Place of Importance

The remains of an ancient Chinese city, the walls of which, before it was destroyed by China's first emperor more than 2,000 years ago, seemingly enclosed more territory than is within the spacious walls of Peking, lies beneath three or four feet of earth about fifty miles south of Peking, awaiting the archaeologists, writes the Japan Advertiser.

About 100 years after Alexander the Great conquered Egypt, or late in the second century B. C., there arose a king in the then comparatively small China who compared favorably with Alexander in conquest and empire building and whose empire lasted almost until the present day. This was Chin Shih Huang, or Shih Huang-Ti ("the first emperor") whose rule, ending in 100 B. C., marks the close of the feudal period and the beginning of the empire in Chinese history.

Shih Huang-Ti, a student of feudal principles, built the famed great Chinese wall and successfully defended the country against the Tartars from the north, standardized money, transportation, writing and other things which aided centralization and destroyed as much of the ancient customs and traditions as possible, with the idea that the history of the Chinese empire should begin with his reign.

Selected Best of All Traveling Companions

The Chinese have a fable of a man who was once summoned to appear for trial under an unjust accusation. The place where he was to be tried was far distant and the journey was long and hard. Just before starting, three disguised figures suddenly appeared and asked to accompany him.

Said the first, "I cannot promise to go with you all the way, but I will see that you have comfortable lodgings and plenty to eat and drink so long as I am with you." The second said, "I cannot promise you these things, but I assure you shall have pleasant companionship, laughter and conversation so long as I am with you." The third said, "I cannot promise you money, nor even pleasant companionship, but I will go with you all the way, plead your case before the judge, and testify on your behalf."

After listening to the offer of all these and weighing carefully their statements the poor man decided to choose the latter. Whereupon the disguised were removed and he found the first to be a rich man, the second his friends, and the third his virtues. Is there any doubt that his choice was wise?

IRVIN H. PILE, FRONTIERSMAN, DIES, SOMERSET

Carried Mail From California to Kansas City During Gold Rush of 1849.

VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR

SOMERSET, June 26.—Irvin H. Pile, Somerset's oldest citizen, died Tuesday at the age of 92 years, one month and 16 days. He was born in the old log house on the "Kimmel lot" below the courthouse. The square of ground on which the building stood was owned by his grandfather before the incorporation of the borough in 1786, and remained in the ownership of the Pile family for three generations.

In 1849 Mr. Pile went to California, where he became the associate of Major George Chorpennig, also of Somerset, in the first transportation of the United States mails between Sacramento, Cal., and Kansas City, Mo. Theirs was a life of thrilling adventure, punctuated by many dangers with Indians and bandits, but both survived to return to their homes and kinfolk in Somerset.

Mr. Pile after his return from the Pacific Coast enlisted as a private soldier in the Civil War, in Captain Franklin B. Long's Company C, 64th Regiment, on February 1, 1862, and serving his three years' enlistment was discharged on February 7, 1865, at Chapin's Farm, Va., having been promoted to sergeant during his service. The late General Jacob M. Campbell, of Johnstown, a native of Allegheny township, Somerset county, was colonel of the 5th Regiment.

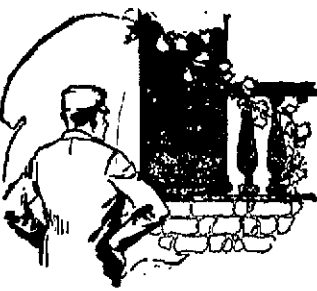

Returning to Somerset after the war Mr. Pile was united in marriage with Miss Stagle, whose father for some years previous was publisher of the New York "Clipper" and who retired to live his remaining years in Somerset.

In 1870 when the completion of the Pittsburgh & Connellsville Railroad connected up the remaining link of truck between Connellsville and Cumberland, Mr. Pile was awarded the contract to carry the mail between Somerset and Lockwood. When the Somerset and Mineral Point branch railway was completed in 1872 Mr. Pile took over carrying of the mail and express between the Somerset depot and postoffice, at which he continued until incapacitated by age and then was succeeded in the service by his son, Milton C. Pile, who with the assistance of his son, Irvin, yet continues in that occupation, supplemented by much transfer of Baltimore & Ohio Railroad freight.

Thus ended the career of one of Somerset county's most remarkable men—the pioneer of the western frontier, the soldier of the Union cause, the sterling citizen of his home community and patriot of a time honored Pennsylvania family.

Mr. Pile is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Cyrus K. Knapp and the Misses Amelia Retzger and Minnie Pile; also one son, Milton C. Pile, all residing in Somerset.

Funeral services for Mr. Pile will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Pile residence in East Fairview street, conducted by the Rev. Dr. I. Hees Wagner, pastor of Trinity

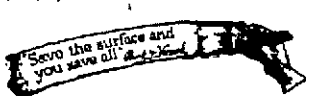

Too Late!

HAVE you ever stopped to think that to replace that column base on your front porch would now cost one-third as much as the paint for your entire house? If that base had been repainted in time it wouldn't need replacing. This applies to every part of your house.

Paint and varnish protect the surface and act as buffers to ravages of wear and weather. The wear is on the paint and varnish and not the surface.

Don't be too late. Come in and talk it over with us. We carry a complete line of paints and varnishes.

Radio---Schoolmaster To the Whole Family

Without being conscious of it America is literally going to school—and right within the home. Radio is schoolmaster to the whole family, teaching as it entertains.

It is as though the country's best talent—in music, art and the sciences; in agriculture, business and home economics; the novel, the opera, the play; the pulpit, the platform, the lyceum—were privately engaged to come to your home and entertain, inform and instruct every member of the family on the real worth while things of life.

The effect of this new environment in the American home is bound to be far-reaching. The younger folks especially, will grow up with a clearer understanding and finer appreciation of the better things in music, and the theatre; lectures and sermons will inspire them to higher ideals of living; and the variety of programs they will be privileged to hear will widen their viewpoint of life.

Every home in America—and especially those blessed with children—should have a Radio. The educational value alone is worth many times the cost of even the highest priced sets.

At the Theatres

The Paramount

"EAST SIDE, WEST SIDE" and "PETER STUYVESANT," a drama of the days when old New York was young, provide interesting entertainment today at the Paramount.

"East Side, West Side," adapted from Leighton Clennell and Henry Hull's stirring drama of the same name, is a picture bound to appeal to everyone whose heart is kindled with romance and sentiment. It serves in pointing a fine moral, carries exceptional dramatic moments, and offers a realistic slice of life in the huge melting pot—New York. The barrier which separates the lowly East Sider from the lordly West Sider is torn away and the sunshine and faith destroyed by any false illusions.

"The central figure, a young girl, with infinite faith in herself, refuses to give up her ideals. She will prefer suffering first."

"Peter Stuyvesant" is splendidly acted, the title role being portrayed by William Cagney, who gives a faithful portrait of the grim and irascible governor. Dwight Weiman gives an interesting characterization of Charles II, King of England. Pearl Sinden is sympathetic as Mrs. Stuyvesant and Charles LaRue is excellent as George Baxter. Frank Tuttle has directed with understanding and artistry, the settings being unusually interesting, historically as well as lavish and beautiful.

Friday and Saturday "Ridin' Double" will be shown.

The Soisson

"THE SIN FLOOD," which opened today at the Soisson for a three day attraction, is a drama that strips the mask from human nature.

Here is a photoplay for the entire family, an exquisite bloom in a desert of mediocrity.

It is a photoplay you will wish to see, and seeing, you will remember. One hesitation to any the obvious thing in connection with it. It is drama with a beauty and dignity that does not stoop to the melodramatic at any time.

The acting of the eleven principal parts is entrusted to players of unusual distinction and wide experience.

The leading woman in the photoplay is Helene Chadwick, who has played in many Goldwyn pictures. Opposite her, Richard Dix plays the spiritual transformation and learns to appreciate the value of constant love.

James Kirkwood, one of the most impressive actors on the screen, is seen in the role of an intrepid preacher. William Orlinwood, who gave an extraordinarily funny impersonation of a "Movie" director in "Doubting for Rome," is a jobless engineer, and Otto Hoffman plays a down-and-out actor.

The Orpheum

"ICEBOUND"—Showing today at the Orpheum with Richard Dix in the leading role, is a screen version of the stage success of the same name.

The theme of "Icebound" is the rebellion of youth against the severe family life on a New England farm. The youth, back from the war in France, recalls the warmth and joyousness of the French people and refuses to work the farm as generations of his people have before him. His mother's plans are in vain and upon her death she leaves her fortune to her step-daughter, with the provision that a younger woman of charm can win him back to the family tradition.

During a party in a neighbor's house, the youth sees it all and faces a prison term on a charge of arson, and the girl risks her fortune to keep him free, her only condition being that he obey her commands. First a rebellious slave, then a willing helper and finally an ardent lover—these three changes are brought about by the girl through her faith in the youth.

Friday and Saturday, "Not a Drum Was Heard," will be shown.

From taking heavy purgatives like salts and calomel at once and take a dose of a pure vegetable compound that contains just what your doctor would advise. TROTTER HUMBLER DIVADA TEAM BY 14 TO 4 SCORE

"Rube" Alexander of the Coke Town Outfit Hangs Up 16th Victory of Year.

POOR FIELDING SEEN

Special to The Courier.
VANDERBILT, June 26.—"It never rains, but it pours," and pour it did when the hard hitting aggregation from Trotter began hammering the old apple to every corner of the Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A. ball park last evening, walloping the highly touted Divada Independents to the tune of 14 to 4. "Rube" Alexander, "4th round" of Grover Cleveland Alexander, "ace" of the Chicago "Cubs" hurling corps, got his second decision over the Young Valley team and marked up his 16th victory of the year.

All was well until the fifth inning. Trotter counted "only" seven times, while the tri-town team chalked up four markers. Trotter, had scored once in the second. The Trotter team scored four more in the sixth and two in the seventh "just to see things up."

Really of Lobsenz led in hitting with four swats, while Smiley, Fraser and Finnerty had three safeties apiece. Newell and Ambrose of the Divadas led their team mates with two safe blows each. Newell and Ambrose fielded well for the losers, with Newell contributing with a fine running, well-handled catch.

"Bill" Addis pitched a masterly game until the fifth inning when the Divada infield blew up. Little flew out for hits. Out of 20 safe chances, eight of these should have been easy put-outs. No line on balls or hit batsmen were recorded against either pitcher.

"Rube" Alexander has pitched 17 games and the worst he did was win 16 and the other. Linked with the winning streak is a strike-out record. Alexander has only whiffed 123 batters in his 17 games.

WHY BY-PRODUCT GAINED IN OUTPUT OVER BEEHIVE COKE

Former Largely Owned by Consuming Interests; Make Low Cost Coke.

80 PER CENT AT FURNACES

The United States Geological Survey has just issued statistics of coke production in the month of May, making the record thus far this year as follows: production being in thousands of net tons of 2,000 pounds.

Month	By-product	Beehive	Total	% By-product
Jan.	1,091	1,134	2,225	49
Feb.	1,294	1,211	2,505	52
Mar.	1,211	1,145	2,356	51
Apr.	1,010	1,078	2,088	48
May	1,748	1,617	3,365	52

The increase in the production of by-product coke is in accordance with a well-known principle says the American Metal Market. The beehive coke industry now performs the function of taking the chief fluctuation in the total demand. When the demand is light beehive ovens tend to go out in operation. There are several reasons for this. In the first place, the by-product ovens are owned largely by consumers, while they produce coke more economically, a matter who owns them. In the second place, it is almost a necessity to keep the by-product ovens in some sort of operation as they suffer by being allowed to grow cold and by then being heated again. It is very easy to curtail production to an extent, by lengthening the coking time, but to cause production entirely is very objectionable. In the third place, the beehive ovens are chiefly performing the function of turning certain limited coal deposits owned by the owners of the ovens, into cash, and there is not much cash to be had for coke now. Many operations will be worked out in a relatively few years, and thus there is not much interest charge involved in leaving the coal in the ground until demand revives as it always does.

The Geological Survey has presented some fresh information of no little interest. It shows, from the beginning of 1920, a separation of the by-product ovens owned by blast furnace interests and those owned otherwise, and gives the relative operations of the two classes.

In January, 1920, of the total by-product coke output the furnace ovens produced 79.8 per cent the non-furnace ovens producing 20.2 per cent. In every month since then the furnace ovens have produced 80 per cent or more of the total. May of this year shows 80.0 per cent for them.

Owing to a slight increase, that in times of dullness in steel the furnace ovens would show lower percentages, trade holding up better with the non-furnace ovens, but that is not the case. The furnace ovens averaged 82.7 per cent in 1921, a poor iron and steel year, against 81.4 per cent in 1920, a good iron and steel year. In 1922 they ran higher, 83.6 per cent for the year, with a peak of 86.9 per cent in July of that year, this being due to the great coal strike, which the steel industry provided itself against by laying in stocks and paying high prices for coal.

In 1923, which may be considered a good year in all trades, the proportions were 82.6 per cent for the furnace ovens and 17.4 per cent for the non-furnace ovens.

Railroad Employee Is Fatally Hurt; Falls While at His Work

DERRY, June 26.—Howard A. Patterson, aged 47, of Thid avenue this place, was injured so badly yesterday afternoon when he lost his balance while inspecting an engine at the Derry roundhouse of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and fell to the ground that he died 20 minutes later. As he fell backwards from the engine his head struck the running board of the engine and he fell to the ground sustaining a fractured skull, never regaining consciousness. Mr. Patterson had been a resident of Derry for the past 25 years having come to this place from New Alexandria. He was a veteran of the Spanish War. He was a prominent member of the Derry Gun Club and was regarded as an expert shot taking part in many shooting matches throughout the state. He was a member of the Trinity Lutheran Church. He is survived by his wife Laura, Mrs. Patterson, three daughters, Mabel, Sarah and Edith, two sons, Clifford and Frederick. Also by one sister, Mrs. Frederick Shroy of Greensburg, and one brother, William Patterson of Youngwood.

Crucially studied for safety conditions and the means employed for eliminating possible hazards.
In plants the Bureau of Mines engineer was able to point out dangerous conditions and practical changes for their removal. The results of this research show that the causes of an explosion heard are similar to those from coal dust in mines. Means of combating them are to prevent clouds of coal dust from getting into the air, and to eliminate the possible sources of ignition. A report giving the result of this investigation will be issued by the Bureau of Mines within the next few months.

Don't clowns love to flirt—Even circus performers are not immune from their charms. Here is James Coyle, one of the 50 Huguenot-Wallace circus clowns, kidding with Leone Earle of the Aerial Eagles. It actually vanishes from sight and the most hotted atmosphere will not produce the least abrasion or soreness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of ASA G. Cantler, Atlanta, Ga., multi-millionaire manufacturer of case coats, has filed suit there for a divorce from his bride of less than a year, charging cruel treatment and humiliating conduct. He married Mrs. Mary Lewis Cantler, a public stenographer, after breaking his engagement to a New Orleans society leader and winning a suit for $500,000 for breach of promise which she brought. Rev. Dr. Percy F. Grant, nationally known for his moderate interpretations of the Bible, has resigned from the pastorate of the Church of the Assumption, in New York City. His engagement to Mrs. Philip Lewis was recently broken because Bishop Manning refused to permit the wedding on the ground that Mrs. Lewis had been divorced from her first husband, W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire sportsman. There is an unconfirmed rumor the wedding will now take place.

The Highgrader

By
WM. MacLEOD RAINES

Copyright by G. W. Dillingham Co.

Though he tried to carry this off with a laugh, the color mounted to his face. "I've been several kinds of an idiot in my time."

"Don't you dare try any nonsense with Moya," her friend cried, a little fiercely.

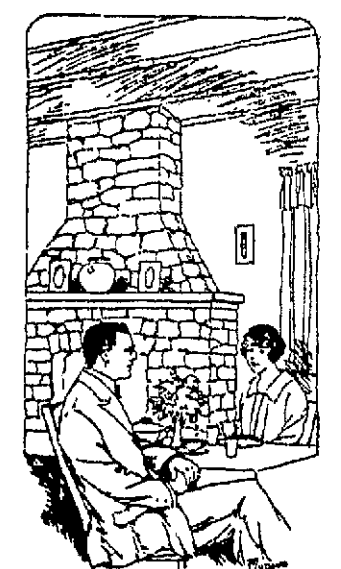

"No," he agreed.

"She's not Joyce."

He had an answer for that. "I'd marry her tomorrow if she'd take me."

"You mean you . . . ?"

"Yes. From the first day I met her again. And I didn't know it till I was down in that hell hole. Shall I tell you something?" He put his arms on the table and leaned toward her with shining eyes. "She was with me down there most of the time. Any time I stopped to listen I could hear her whispering courage in that low, sweet voice of hers."

"He's a Better Man Than You Are, Jack."

"You know about her and Ned?"

"Yes."

"He's a better man than you are, Jack."

"Yes."

"But you won't let him have her."

"No, by G—d, not unless she loves him."

"She would have loved him if it hadn't been for you."

"Ten men she loves me?"

"She won't marry you. She can't."

"Why not? Because I don't belong to her social set?"

"No. That would be reason enough for Joyce or me, but I don't think it would stop Moya."

"You mean—highgrading?"

"Yes."

Joyce interrupted further conversation by making her usual late appearance for breakfast. At sight of Moya's eyes brightened. Life always became more interesting for her when a possible man was present. Instantly she came forward with a touch of reluctant eagerness that was very effective.

"I'm glad to see you up again—no glad, Mr. Kilmory."

In the pretty breakfast gown which displayed her soft curves and the ripe roundness of throat and arm she made a picture wholly charming. If Jack was surprised he gave no sign of it.

"Kind to meet you, Miss Seldom."

Her eyes rained sweet pity on him, a tenderness potent enough to disturb the serenity of any young man not in armor.

"We—we've been so worried about you."

He laughed gently and without resentment. "Awfully good of you. Shall I ring for the waiter?"

India rose. "I'm going riding with Ned and Moya," she explained.

Alone with the westerner, Joyce felt her blood begin to quicken.

"Are you quite . . . recovered?" she asked.

Their eyes met. In his there was a faint cynical smile of amusement.

"Quite."

She understood the double meaning in his words. Her lashes fell to the soft cheeks, then lifted again. "I thought perhaps there might be . . . that you might still be . . ."

He shook his head vigorously. "It was only a dream. I can laugh at it now—and at myself for taking it seriously."

Joyce bit her lip in vexation. There was something not quite decent in so prompt a recovery from her charms. He did not appear to hold even any resentment.

Nor did he. Kilmory had been brought too near the grim realities to hold any petty pique. He found this young woman still charming, but his admiration was distracted with amusement. No longer did his imagination play upon her personality. He focused it upon the girl who had fought for his life against the ridicule and the suspicions of her friends. It was impossible for him to escape the allure of her fine sweet courage so gallantly expressed in every look and motion.

But Moya let him severely alone. Her pride was suffering because she had shown to all her little world too keen an interest in him. In her anxiety to repudiate any claim he might think she felt she had upon him the girl was scornfully indifferent to his advances. Almost rudely she rejected his gratitude.

"The man does not owe me anything. Can't he see that honors are easy?" she said impatiently to Lady Farquhar.

Jack Kilmory was no quitter. He was not that lean jaw of his and would not accept repulse. In four days now the Farquhar party was going to leave Goldbanks and he made the most of his time.

Moya never saw him coming toward her without having her pulses stirred, but her look met his always quietly and steadily. Not once did she give him a chance to see her alone. Even Lady Farquhar, who had been a severe critic of her vagaries, commended now her discretion. Jack rebelled against it in vain. He could not find a chance to speak. It was characteristic of him that he made none.

By shrewd maneuvering he arranged an expedition to the Silent Sam mine. The property itself was of no particular interest. The attractive feature was a descent in ore buckets from the shaft-house, perched far up on the edge of a precipitous cliff, to the mill in the valley below. This was made by means of heavy cables to which the buckets were suspended. After Jack had explained how the men rode back and forth by this means between the mill and the mine India was seized with the inspiration he had hoped for.

"Let's go down in the buckets, dear people."

Lady Farquhar protested and was overruled by a chorus of votes. The miner assured her that it was entirely safe. Reluctantly she gave permission for her flock to make the trip if they desired.

They rode on horseback to the mill. Jack paired with India, making no attempt to ride beside Moya, who brought up the rear with the captain. The westerner, answering the questions of his cousin, was at his debonair best. Occasionally there drifted back to the couple in the rear fragmentary snatches of his talk. He was telling of the time he had been a mule skinner in New Mexico, of how he had ridden mail near Deming, and of frontier days at Tombstone. Casual anecdotes were sprinkled through his explanations to lighten them. He spoke in the stirring drawl of the South-west, which went so well with the brown lean face beneath the pinched-in felt hat and the well-packed vigor of the man.

"And what is 'bucking a sample'?" India wanted to know after one of his stories.

"You just pound some rock up and mix it to get a sample. Once when I was drag-driver of a herd in a round-up—"

Moya heard no more. She turned her attention resolutely to her companion and tried to detach her mind from the man in front. She might as well have tried to keep her heart from beating.

After they had arrived at the mill Jack quietly took charge of the disposition of the party. Valinder and Joyce were sent up in the first bucket. When this was halfway up to the mine the cable stopped to let another couple enter a bucket. Joyce, fifty feet up in the air, waved her hand to those below.

"You next, India," ordered her cousin.

The young woman stepped into the bucket. "I'm 'fraid," she announced promptly.

"No need to be. Captain, your turn."

The eyes of the two men met. Ned Kilmory guessed instantly that the other had arranged this so as to get a few minutes alone with Moya. He took a place beside his sister immediately.

The cable did not stop again until the second pair of passengers had reached the mine.

Moya, followed by Jack, stepped into the bucket, which began to rise steadily as it moved across the valley.

Kilmory did not lose a minute.

"Why don't you let me see you alone? Why do you run away from me?" he demanded.

Little patches of color burned beneath the shadows of her eyes. A sound as of a distant snarl began to beat in her ears.

"What nonsense! Why should I run from you?" she asked, meeting with difficulty the attack of his masterful gaze.

"Because you're afraid to let me tell you that I love you," he charged.

"Thought it was Joyce you . . . fancied," she retorted quietly, her pulse hammering.

"So it was. I fancied her. I love you. I'm asking you to marry me."

"You don't have to ask me to marry you because you exaggerate the service I did you."

"Am I nothing but a thief to you?"

"I have told you that you are the man I . . . love. Isn't that a good deal?"

The desire of her, pure as a flame, swept through him. "It's the greatest thing that ever came into my life. Do you think I'm going to let it end there? I'm going to fight for our happiness. I'm going to beat down the things that come between us."

"You can't. It's too late," she cried wistfully.

"It's never too late for love so long as we're both alive."

"Not for love, but . . ."

"You've got to see this as I see it, sweetheart. I'm a man—primitive if you like. I've done wild and evil things—plenty of them. What of that? I slung them off and trampled them down. The heart of me is clean, isn't it?"

"To look at him was enough to clear away all doubt. He had the faults that go with full-blooded elemental life, but at bottom this virile American was sound."

"Well, isn't that enough?"

The little movement of her hands toward him seemed to beg for pity.

"Jack! I can't help it. Maybe I'm a little prig, but . . . mustn't we guide our lives by principle and not by impulse?"

"Do I guide mine by impulse?"

"Don't you?" She hurried on to contradict or at least to modify, her reluctant charge. "Oh, I know you are a great instance here. You're known all over the state. Men follow you wherever you lead. Why should I criticize you—who have done nothing all my life but learn on others?"

"Do ahead. When I ask you to marry me I invite your criticism."

EXTRA TEACHER NEEDED FOR EAST HUNTINGDON HIGH

Sixty-One Coming Into Senior Class From Which 18 Were Graduated.

OPENS BIDS ON FRIDAY

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTSBURGH, June 26.—The members of the East Huntingdon Township School Board have carefully considered the situation arising from 61 students being graduated from the eighth grade and coming into the high school, only 18 having graduated from the school this year, and feel that to handle this situation properly it will be necessary to put another teacher in the high school. This will leave three vacancies in the high school corps of teachers.

The two vacancies in the grade schools were supplied. Horietta Ringler was chosen to teach at McCreedy No. 1 and Miss Vivian Bloom, a graduate of the Indiana Normal at Hawkeye.

The Brownstown school situation was also considered. Here there are 18 students in the sixth grade, and two or three pupils in each other grade. It was decided to close the school and consolidate with White's. The student will have but very little farther to walk and will have much better educational advantages. Miss Hazel Shively teaches Room 1, and Miss Gladys Fyfe, Room 2.

Misses Myrtle Loucks and Goldie Bergstrom, teachers in the district, were chosen to take the school course. They will begin at an early date.

The meeting to have been held Tuesday afternoon to open bids for the new high school was postponed until Friday. It was said there are at least 16 general contractors working on the bids.

Completing Fourth Phase.
John J. Bell, who has charge of Scotland's 50th anniversary celebration, was called to Pittsburgh yesterday to complete further arrangements for the event.

Arm Broken.
George Lockard, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lockard, was taken to the Memorial Hospital where a fractured right arm was dressed.

New Independent Reporter.
Miss Mary Margaret Dinkin, who for some time had been with the Scotland Independent, has resigned as society and sports editor and has been succeeded by James Kunkle, one of the graduates of the 1924 class of the high school.

Life Saving Courses.
Red Cross life saving courses have been opened at the Y. M. C. A. for members. For the men work will be looked after by H. C. Helmreich, head of the boys' department, and he is assisted by Charles D. Dickerson, who teaches in the Lewistown High School. Both are registered examiners.

Three periods a week for the next two weeks, starting Monday, June 23, will be set aside for this work. Men will be given instruction Monday, Tuesday and Friday from 8:15 to 9 o'clock. Already six men have begun taking courses.

Women interested, under the direction of Miss Jewell, may take the course from 8 to 9:15 o'clock on Wednesday. Eighteen women have been enrolled.

Tonsils Removed.
Mary and Rebecca Rittenour of Emerson had their tonsils removed at the Memorial Hospital at Mount Pleasant yesterday.

1,500 IN CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR PAGEANT AT PITTSBURGH STATE MEET

PITTSBURGH, June 26.—Modern science is being extensively employed in presentation of the missionary pageant, "Where Saints Have Trod," which will be presented by a cast of 1,500 at Forbes Field during the state Christian Endeavor convention July 7-11.

Direction of the entire cast will be by telephone. A private switchboard will be set up in the field and lines will be extended to various groups in the pageant, enabling the director, George M. P. Baird of the Pittsburgh Art Commission, to have ready control of his players.

In addition, the pageant players will be heard in every section of the grandstands, although they will be located beyond second base. This will be possible through installation of an expensive amplifying system—the same one used at services over the grave of the Unknown Soldier and at Harding's inaugural address. The equipment is being brought overland from Philadelphia and will be mounted on a truck so as to be portable, the bulkhead being used for lounge games during the day.

Costumes, 1,500 in number, are being made by a picked corps of dressmakers from sketches by the director of the pageant. They will be in keeping with each period in the pageant. The latter will depict the march of the missionary movement from the early days of history through the Crusades and down to the present time.

Never before has such a spectacle been attempted. The state Christian Endeavor body decided upon it only after much deliberation and is putting it on at great expense. The amplifying system alone will cost several thousands of dollars, according to experts of the Bell Telephone Company who will have charge of installing it.

Every drugstore in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenbur's is the sure conqueror of rheumatism does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenbur's has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and protracted and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenbur's, who for many years suffered the tortments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenbur's decisively conquers the worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance.
